Ed Pinkert vs. John P Balrd, Pulaski Chancery Court, affirmed Court. affirmed. BY WILLIAM W. HUGHES LITTLE ROCK (UP) Arkanas law enforcement officers apparently have been unable to capitalize on a new combination of federal laws designed in part to make it easier to investigate, arrest and convict violators of state gambling statutes. A check of federal records discloses that 90 persons in Arkansas hold gambling tax stamps they have been forced to purchase under a iwo-year-old provision of the Internal Revenue code. Another new provision in ode permits prosecuting attorneys other law enforcement officers inspect special monthly tax returns the holders of the tax stamps must file on their income from gambling. (They are the only income tax returns in the nation that can be opened to inspection without the express permission of the Internal Revenue Commissioner in Washington. The new pro-
